

ASPA Agency-Organizational and Group Memberships

The American Society for Public Administration is pleased to now offer organizational memberships in ASPA as well as group membership discounts.

An ASPA organizational membership provides your staff access to a distinguished professional network and helps keep them informed of the most effective management practices in their area of practice or study. By becoming an organizational member of ASPA, you join ASPA's efforts to build the public service workforce of the future and advance excellence in public service.

Through exclusive electronic announcements ASPA members are the first to know about the latest opportunities in the field, including calls for papers/proposals, conferences, event announcements and the many ways your ASPA membership saves you money and time. Also, an organizational membership entitles you to discounts when attending our conferences and professional development events.
