

THE STUDENT EXPERIENCE

Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, committed citizens can change the world; indeed, it's the only thing that ever has.

- Margaret Mead

You, today's students, represent the next generation of scholars, practitioners and researchers entering into public service and administration. Our goal at the American Society for Public Administration (ASPA) is to help you develop your skills, connect with today's best and brightest and learn how to advance your career, so you can continue advancing excellence in public service for decades to come.

When you become an ASPA member, we help you:

Network

Sixty city- and state-level Chapters and subject-matter 30 Sections offer you the opportunity to have diverse, in-person relationships with those in your local area, as well as within your interest areas. Chapter events, especially, offer you opportunities to build relationships with others in the discipline.

Publish

ASPA offers students multiple avenues to publish their research and other projects. Public Administration Review provides a media in which you can publish prominent and leading-edge research that reaches both scholars and public servants. PA TIMES offers a media in which you can publish hands-on insights and thought leadership, geared specifically for the practitioner audience. Section journals also offer opportunities to publish research within niche categories including ethics, procurement, HR, comparative public administration and more.

Find Mentors

ASPA offers two competitive student programs, the Founders' Fellows Program and the International Young Scholars Workshop, that pair admitted students with mentors to guide them in refining their research, advancing their careers, connecting with others in the field and providing educational and emotional support as they get started in the discipline.

Connect

ASPA's conferences provide in-person events that connect you with leaders in the discipline. The Annual Conference, taking place each spring, connects you with your peers from across the country, as well as some of the most important names in public service. Regional events provide smaller venues with valuable one-on-one opportunities to connect you with city- and state-level experts.

This is just the tip of the iceberg! All of these benefits and more are provided to students for just $50 per year—just $4 per month! More information can be found online at www.aspanet.org or by contacting membership@aspanet.org.

You don't have to do everything, but don't sit on the sidelines.

- Hillary Clinton

The American Society for Public Administration (ASPA) is the oldest member society in the country representing civil servants and those researching the public administration discipline. Founded in 1948, our mission is simple: To advance excellence in public service.
